It's that time of the year again! Saturday, February 5, 2011 marks our annual, traditional first Saturday in February when we hold our SUPER/LECNY Conference. This year's theme "Quick Takes 3" will feature several mini workshops covering a range of levels and diverse topics. Go back to school on Monday with many new ideas! Come enjoy a morning of camaraderie, professional development, and exchange of ideas. Join us for an informal lunch to socialize and share with colleagues. We will also have our LECNY Flea Market, where you'll find all sorts of goodies for your classroom at very low prices, so be sure to bring some cash! There will be a raffle right before lunch as well.

$10	LECNY members
$15	Non-members
$5	Students/Pre-service Teachers

Registration includes breakfast, workshops and lunch. A three-hour in-service credit form will be available before lunch. The registration deadline is January 20, 2011. Please direct questions to Barbara Gordon at barbara@barrygordon.com or 638-4749.

The Schools and University Partnership for Educational Responsibility (SUPER) is cosponsored by Syracuse University's Schools of Arts and Science and School of Education. Under the leadership of Professors PatTinto and Jack Graver, SUPER aims to support educational growth through collaborative dialogue and meetings, as well as, providing funding for partnering school districts and colleges. In accordance with this, the SUPER program helps establish conferences and forums to create and strengthen networks for educators in all levels of education. SUPER has enjoyed a long and prosperous relationship with LECNY and its members. For almost 20 years, this partnership has created an annual conference on the Syracuse University campus, where foreign language teachers can address common concerns and plan new directions for their programs.
